

Business Economist for a start-up

The importance of sound and acoustic appears to us when we are in a cinema or a theatre. As soon as the music kicks in and when we are fully surrounded by it, we get filled up with emotions and live in the moment. Sound and acoustic can also be annoying, when we are in a restaurant and want to talk with our friends and can barely understand each other.

With us spending most of our lifetime inside, ECHO WORK has the goal to redefine our interior sound environment and make it more than just a background. By combining acoustics, art and contemporary design in a new generation of modular acoustic absorbers and supported by our consulting services, we want to create an atmosphere in which you feel comfortable, regardless of whether you are working, listening to music or talking to friends. We rely on sustainable and recycled materials for a natural environment in which one likes to live.

We are an acoustic consultant and an architect who are currently working on the design and development of our product and we are looking for a motivated third member who is supporting us with financial and economical knowledge.

Your Tasks:

- You become the third member of our start-up idea and you take over financial and economical tasks
- You help us to develop a business plan and to prepare the start-up for the entrepreneurship pitch
- You help us to deeply analyse the target market and optimize the product regarding customer demands

Requirements:

- University degree in business or economics, with a specialisation in Finance, Accounting, Controlling or a related field
- You are an Excel wizard
- Excellent communicator and skilled in working effectively with colleagues
- Self-starter: proactive, challenges the status quo

Our Offer:

- The opportunity to shape the future of room acoustics
- Since we are not founded yet, you have the freedom to shape the company along with your ideas
- A commitment to sustainability
- A highly motivated team
